

Online Bachelor of General Studies

DEGREE COMPLETION PROGRAM

Component Area Information

As you work toward the bachelor of general studies degree, you have wonderful flexibility in choosing course work that meets your interests and professional goals. To complete the program, you will choose courses from the following “component areas.” Component areas are courses that have been grouped together in a common subject area and constitute your major.

Since you are transferring credit from another institution or building on past MU credit, you may be able to create one whole component from course work you already have taken. You also may be able to use transfer work as a portion of the other two components. You’ll need a minimum of 15 credit hours in each component. The online BGS completion program adviser will help you select the most appropriate courses for you take.

All component areas are subject to growth and/or change. Please check cdis.missouri.edu/bgs.aspx for the most up-to-date course information. (Note: there are additional courses offered that may fit into these components. Your adviser will help you select the appropriate courses to take.)
